Speakers Biographies

Dr. David Lisak is a researcher and forensic consultant who for 25 years has studied the causes and consequences of interpersonal violence. His work has focused on the long term effects of sexual abuse in men, the relationship between child abuse and violence, and the motives and characteristics of rapists. Dr. Lisak has served as a consultant to judicial, prosecutor and law enforcement education programs across the country, and has conducted workshops in all fifty states. He consults widely with universities, the four services of the U.S. Military, the Department of Defense, and other institutions regarding sexual assault prevention and policies, and frequently serves as an expert witness in homicide and sexual assault cases. Dr. Lisak is a founding member of 1in6, a non-profit agency that serves men who were sexually abused as children.

Candice L. Schachter, PT, PhD is an adjunct professor at the School of Physical Therapy, University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, SK Canada. She received her physical therapy training at the University of Saskatchewan and doctorate at the University of Western Ontario. Her interest in trauma-informed care arose from her work as an activist volunteer in sexual assault centres in Windsor and London Ontario. She was the principal investigator of the Sensitive Practice Project, a multi-disciplinary, multi-phased project aimed at generating research-based guidelines on trauma-informed care to assist health care practitioners to work more effectively with adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse. She co-authored two editions of The Handbook on Sensitive Practice for Health Care Practitioners: Lessons from Adult Survivors of Childhood Sexual Abuse. She has presented information on trauma-informed care locally, nationally and internationally to diverse audiences in the health care field. Candice is keenly interested in ways that health care practitioners can integrate trauma-informed care into clinical practice to foster better health care experiences for adult survivors of childhood violence and positive survivor-clinician relationships.

Linda Oponechaw, BA, is a descendant of the Plains Cree Chakastaypasin Band, signatories of Treaty # Six, and currently member of the James Smith Cree Nations. She grew up on the Cumberland 100A Reserve, and at an early age sent to the Gordon’s Indian Residential School, and later to All Saints Indian Residential School in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan. She graduated from the E.D. Feehan Separate High School in 1972, and later received her Bachelor of Arts Degree, major, Native Studies and minor, Political studies from Brandon University in 2007. She also received her Justice System Certificate from Brandon in 2006. Linda has been blessed with being loaned four children to raise, Anita, Tyrell, Shannon and Greg and has seven grandchildren.
